

- Martin • 2 days ago
Kiss 50 grand of taxpayer money good bye!

- 1

- Voice of Reason • 2 days ago
Why would they even consider appealing this? It seems obvious that the judge's decision is based on the law and other decisions made on similar cases. Perhaps they don't like to be told no, they are being pressured by the county and ATV club to waste taxpayer's money or they are confused about where their responsibilities lie as elected officials. So typical of our local law makers. They feel the law is for everyone but them.

- 1

-

- Michael Gille Voice of Reason • 2 days ago

- Lets get this straight the ATV Club is not pressuring the village what ever decesionsthe Village makes we will support them!

-

- Voice of Reason • a day ago

- Looks to me like you're splitting hairs Gille. Must be the judge thought it was close enough to decide in the plaintiff's favor. You can deny the club's involvement they aren't looking out for anyone but themselves and the taxpayers in that tiny village are going to foot the bill.

-

- my2cents • a day ago

- Waste county tax dollars to hop on the bandwagon??? The decision has been made and the county officials are once again looking at their big salaries. For village taxpayers in Constableville, why is the board wasting taxpayer money? Other towns and villages may not want this county economic plan crammed down their throats. Wake up Lewis County Legislators! Spend our tax dollars on more important issues.